

Monday 19th November 2018

E we are learning to develop our range of sentence starters.

sp ASI was ironing ^{and} I was watching my daughter open her presents. It was her 7th birthday. She was so excited. ^{Suddenly} when I got I smelt something burning. I looked down and my ^{toaster} ^{toaster} was glowing out with steaming hot smoke. I quickly ran to the sink and put it under the water. When I looked up I saw Edward, my toy pet rabbit, sitting on the top shelf.

sp Just then, I remembered my own 7th birthday. * When I woke up on that morning I ran down stairs and saw ^{several} presents wrapped up in brightly colored wrapping paper. I felt so excited to open ~~that~~ all of them. I decided to go open the ~~medium~~ ^{medium} one last, as I thought it ~~was~~ was much more ^{precious} ~~valuable~~ than the others and ^{it was} quite special. ASI opened the last one, I saw it was a ^{girl} rabbit all made out of chine.

self like precious

sp When I got it, it was hard and the clothes were made out of smooth, red & silk, which ^{was} shiny, black shoes which reflected onto the sun. I thanked my I thanked my ^{grandmother} for giving it to me, and went to bed, hanging him as I slept. 20.11.18 The next morning I played with him as much I could. I called him Edward. I wore.

sp I took him off (of) the tall, brown shelf which was holding ~~that~~ had him on and placed it in her hands and said, "This was mine when I was little girl, ^{my grandmother} gave it to me on my 7th birthday." * my I still remember that day, it ^{was} like it were yesterday. I "your snow" "Thank you Mum" she said.

Some good sentence openers. Remember to continue to use them throughout your writing to link your ideas.